Our Mission Statement

The love of Jesus Christ gathers us together to welcome and embrace all God's Children.

El amor de Jesus Cristo nos unifica para acoger a todos como hijos de Dios

Message from Deacon Nick Danze, Pastoral Associate

Dear parishioners,

Today all three readings speak profoundly about the same thing: following the Lord means that we will suffer. Truth be told this is never a popular theme.

In fact we, often times, really prefer that our faith become simply a personal comfort to us in time of need. We are not really at ease with a faith that demands that we speak up in terms of truth and justice and right.

The Prophet Jeremiah advocated that the people surrender to the enemy and this infuriated the army leaders. You see, not everyone who speaks against a war is a prophet! And not everyone who advocates a war is advocating something good.

Today war is less acceptable as a way of settling differences or of dealing with perceived injustice. In fact, we have not found a way of helping others that is effective. Indeed, so much of what we hear is only a creation of the media or a result of politics and not at all about the realities of peace, just and right in our world.

Perhaps, we need a Jeremiah who is truly a person of faith, not a creation of the media or of politics.

The Gospel, speaks of the theme of discord. You see, so often we think of the Gospel of Christ as a Gospel of Peace—but today's readings make sure that we are not naïve!

My friends, Christian peace comes only with doing God's will. Jesus can speak strongly about not bringing peace because when we begin to follow the Lord, it often puts us at odds with others. Even within Christian communities we may find strong differences and sometimes outright conflicts.

Sometimes such differences and conflicts are truly based on striving to do God's will but generally they come about because we want to do things our way and are not willing to compromise.

For those of us who call ourselves Christian, and in order to come to true and lasting peace Jesus must be our model. In other words, we too must be willing to lay down our life for others.

Let us ask our Father this day to deepen us in faith, to help us know the truth that sets us free and to seek peace and pursue it. May God have mercy on us and on our world.

In HIS Peace
Deacon Nick

Stewardship Stance

"Do you think I have come to give you peace on Earth? No, I tell you, but rather division." -
-LUKE 12:51

Living a Stewardship lifestyle means stepping out of our comfort zone when needed. Many of us like to play it safe, not cause waves, stay in the middle of the road. In today's world we are called to be informed and take a stance for life, marriage and religious liberty.

Family Reflection Corner

Weekly Readings Reflections

20th Sunday in Ordinary Time

Choose one of the following activities as a way to further reflect on the Sunday readings:

- Talk about the challenges which your family faces at this time? How can you work together to overcome those challenges?
- Hold a family picnic this week as summer vacation draws to an end or as our society gets ready to return to the regular activities of early autumn. On the picnic, hold a race – like the one suggested in today's second reading. Afterward, talk together about what it means to keep one's eye on the goal in a race.
- Name the people in your extended family who do not share your faith. Give them a phone call, not to recruit them but to let them know you care about them very much.

Holy Hour of Intercession

The Youth and Young Adults Office at the Diocese of Camden requested that parishes come together in Intercessory Prayers for our youth. With so many daily distractions and temptations negatively affecting the mind, body, soul and spirit of our young people, it is important that we pray for healthy interactions and correct moral values in their lives. We are therefore providing time each month when parishioners can come together to pray for all children and young adults, as well as all the intentions they hold in their hearts.

Our next holy hour will be Monday, Aug. 19, 2019

Question: What is the difference between Archdiocese and Diocese

Answer: There is one major element that separates an Archdiocese from a regular Diocese.

The Catholic Church eventually organized its parishes into what are called dioceses. Simply put, a diocese is a geographical region, and all of the parishes in that area, that a particular bishop oversees and shepherds. All the Catholics in a diocese are under the spiritual care of that bishop.

An archdiocese, from the Greek suffix indicating "head" or "ruler," is a diocese that includes a larger city or an area with a very large Catholic population. An archdiocese is headed by an archbishop, and the archbishop of the largest diocese in a region is known as a metropolitan archbishop.

When a problem arises that a local bishop is unable to resolve, he first goes to the metropolitan archbishop, before going any further up the hierarchical chain. In reality, the difference between a diocese and an archdiocese is primarily one of size. It is a small difference, but one that helps distribute the governance of the Catholic Church and keeps the most important shared ministries and administrative functions of a Catholic community at the local level.
