FROM POPE FRANCIS

General Audience, Vatican, May 24, 2017

Dear Brothers and Sisters,

Today, I would like to reflect on the experience of the two disciples of Emmaus, narrated in the Gospel of Luke. Let us imagine the scene: two men are walking; disappointed, sad, convinced that they are leaving behind them the bitterness of an event which ended badly. Before that Easter, they had been full of enthusiasm, convinced that those days would be decisive: their expectations met as well as the hopes of all the people. Jesus, to whom they had entrusted their lives, had seemed to arrive at the final battle. He would now manifest his power, after a long period of preparation and concealment. This is what they were expecting. And it was not to be.

The two pilgrims had been nurturing a uniquely human hope which was now falling to pieces. The Cross raised on Calvary was the most eloquent sign of a defeat which they had not foreseen. If that Jesus was truly in accordance with God's heart, then they had to conclude that God was unarmed, defenseless in the hands of violent people, unable to offer any resistance to evil.

So on that Sunday morning, these two men flee from Jerusalem. They still envision the events of the Passion, the death of Jesus unfold, and their souls bear the painful torment of those events during Saturday's forced repose. That Easter, which should have inspired a song of liberation, has instead transformed into the most painful day of their lives. They leave Jerusalem to go elsewhere, to a tranquil village. They look like people who are intent on removing a burning memory. They are thus on the road, walking in sadness. This scenario — the road — had already been important in the Gospel narratives. It will now become increasingly more important, at the moment in which the history of the Church begins to be told.

Jesus' encounter with those two disciples appears to be completely fortuitous. It seems to be one of those chance meetings that happen in life. The two disciples are walking, deep in thought, and a stranger comes up alongside them. It is Jesus, but their eyes are not able to recognize Him. And therefore, Jesus begins His "therapy of hope." What takes place on this road is a therapy of hope. Who administers it? Jesus.

Firstly, He asks and listens. Our God is not an intrusive God. Even though He knows the reason for the disappointment of those two men, He gives them time to be able to deeply fathom the bitterness which has overcome them. Out of this comes a confession that is a refrain in human existence. "We had hoped, but... We had hoped, but..." How much sadness, how many defeats, how many failures there are in the lives of every person! Deep down, we are all a little like those two disciples. How many times we have hoped in our lives. How many times we have felt like we were one step away from happiness only to find ourselves knocked to the ground, disappointed. But, Jesus walks with all people who, discouraged, walk with their heads hung low. And walking with them in a discrete manner, He is able to restore hope.

Jesus speaks to them, above all through the Scriptures. Those who take up God's Book will not encounter easy heroism, fierce campaigns of conquest. True hope never comes cheaply. It always undergoes defeat. The hope of those who do not suffer is perhaps not even hope. God does not like to be loved as one who would love a ruler who leads his people to victory, annihilating his enemies in a bloodbath. Our God is a faint light burning on a cold and windy day, and as fragile as His presence in the world may appear, He has chosen the place that we all disdain.

Jesus then repeats for the disciples the fundamental gesture of every Eucharist. He takes bread, blesses it, breaks it and gives it. Does not Jesus' entire history perhaps lie in this series of gestures? And is there not in every Eucharist, also the symbol of what the Church should be? Jesus takes us, blesses us, "breaks" our life — because there is no love without sacrifice — and offers it to others; he offers it to everyone.

Jesus' encounter with the two disciples of Emmaus is a fleeting one. But the entire destiny of the Church is contained within it. It tells us that the Christian community is not enclosed within a fortified citadel, but rather journeys along its most essential environment, which is the road. And there, it encounters people with their hopes and disappointments, burdensome at times. The Church listens to everyone's stories as they emerge from the treasure chest of personal conscience, in order to then offer the Word of Life, the witness of love, a love that is faithful until the end. And thus, the heart of people reignite with hope.

We have all had difficult moments in life, dark moments in which we walked in sadness, pensive, without horizons, with only a wall before us. And Jesus is always beside us to give us hope, to warm our hearts and say: "Go ahead, I am with you. Go ahead." The secret of the road that leads to Emmaus is simply this: despite appearances to the contrary, we continue to be loved and God will never stop loving us. God will walk with us always, always, even in the most painful moments, even in the worst moments, even in moments of defeat. That is where the Lord is. And this is our hope. Let us go forward with this hope! Because He is beside us and walks with us. Always!

Sentimental Squares

After Mass, stop by the display table just inside the front doors of St. Ann Church! Take home one of the "Sentimental Squares" of carpeting which were lovingly preserved from the recent refurbishment of the Church flooring. While they last!

Reminisce with William Purdon, the creator of this chance to celebrate, retain and distribute 'pieces of our past' at St. Ann Church. As he so beautifully explains:

"Having experienced so many moments of spiritual practice, celebration, and even mourning but always purposeful prayer here, with family over 40 years to include Sunday services, special holiday Masses, in-laws re-commitment of vows at the altar, then later both of their funerals, impressed all good and reverent memories upon me nonetheless.

I thought of the red altar with all of the sacred seconds of worship, voice and verse witnessed and absorbed. Truly the foundation underfoot, of our shared faith."

Many thanks to William for his labor of love cutting, vacuuming and cleaning each of the Sentimental Squares — and freely offering them to those of us who would appreciate having a tangible, vibrant, warm memento of holy moments at our beloved St. Ann's Church.

Reflections on the Readings

READING I: Acts 2:14, 22-33 — My heart has been glad.

◆ In this reading from Acts, Peter tells the story of Jesus. For the Israelites, the Resurrection is a sign that Jesus is the “anointed one.” This passage reveals that Jesus is both Lord of heaven and the Messiah sent to save Israel.

READING II: 1 Peter 1:17-21— It is through him that you are believers.

◆ This letter encourages Christians to remain faithful in the face of hardship. The Israelites’ journey through the desert is compared to the journey of the Christian. For Christians, salvation is ours when we follow in Jesus’ footsteps, sufferings included.

GOSPEL: Luke 24:13-35 — Were not our heart burning within us as he spoke?

◆ In this Gospel, a stranger joins the disciples as they journey to Emmaus. It was not unusual for a person living in the region at the time to invite a stranger to be their guest and share a meal. The stranger/guest in this Gospel suddenly becomes the host, and the disciples receive from him the Bread of Life.

Wildwood Catholic Academy

PreK to 12th Grade 609-522-7257

From the Pastor's Desk

Dear Parishioners,

Let us continue to pray for all the students and their families, teachers, staff, Board, PTA, volunteers, alumni and benefactors of Wildwood Catholic Academy, our wonderful Parish school.

Let each of us also prayerfully consider helping a student in need. Our generous contributions to the Academy's Help Sponsor a Student program would directly help students in need to continue to benefit not only from the excellent academic curriculum and extracurricular activities but, most especially, the solid Catholic and moral foundation the Academy offers to all its students. You will find information on donating to the Help Sponsor a Student program below.

Please know that I am grateful to all those who support our school with their prayers, time, talent and financial gifts. May God bless you always!

In Christ,
Fr. Mazz

Saint of the Week

St. Mark the Evangelist First Century

Nothing is known for certain of St. Mark's origins or his youth. What is known is that he left his homeland in Palestine to follow first St. Paul, and then, St. Peter. He sailed seas in primitive boats. He walked long stretches through desolate lands. He tried to convince hardened pagans and skeptical Romans that the Gospel message was true. The Acts of the Apostles, the letters of St. Paul, and the First Letter of St. Peter all put dots on the map of St. Mark's life: He is traveling with Paul in Asia Minor, then he is with Barnabas on a boat over here, then with someone else over there, and then he disappears for a number of years. The scattered evidence ends, however, with clear testimony that St. Mark joined Peter in Rome. In Peter's first letter, written to the Church in Asia Minor, Pope Peter sends greetings on Mark's behalf and refers to him as "my son" (1 Pt 5:13).

St. Mark is best known as the author of a Gospel. Scholars believe that his Gospel relates the experiences of St. Peter and was written for non-Jews who would be impressed by Christ's miracles more than His fulfillment of Old Testament prophecies. So in St. Mark's Gospel are found details that suggest he was relating words of an eyewitness. St. Mark preserved for all time the Word of God, Jesus Christ, by committing Peter's words to writing, thus ensuring that the eyewitness accounts of Christ's life were not lost or changed. Once the Word was enshrined on papyrus, Saint Mark had accomplished his mission forever and always.

St. Mark is the Patron Saint of Venice, lawyers, interpreters, prisoners and lions. His Memorial is celebrated on April 25.
